POLICY ON CONSULTANCY

Arul Anandar College considers consultancy activities as an opportunity to translate its thrust into all favourable fields. The members of the faculty are encouraged to share their expertise for the development of knowledge, technology and professional skill, benefitting the individual, the institutions and the society, by way of free or honorary or paid consultancy. The college, thus, satisfies its inner urge to pay back to the society what it receives in multiple forms.

Terms and Conditions

- Members of the faculty can undertake consultancy without affecting the work within the college with due prior permission from the competent authorities.
- Formal permission must be obtained from competent authorities for the use of the facilities of the college for consultancy purpose.
- If the paid consultancy uses the college facilities, the payment associated with the consultancy is to be divided between the individual and the college based on the agreement enforced through mutual consultation.
- Those who provide consultancy are expected to furnish the consultancy details immediately after its completion.
- Activities such as delivering lectures, evaluating answer scripts and acting as external examiner do not come under consultancy services.
